

WYNDHAM • DESTINATIONS

→ Barry Robinson
President & Managing Director, International Operations - Wyndham Vacation Clubs

Dear all,

In many countries across the Asia Pacific region, the COVID-19 outlook is starting to improve and there is a sense of cautious optimism as some restrictions are lifted.

I am encouraged that our business can start to share in that optimism. On Monday, our New Zealand resorts will reopen and all of our Japanese resorts will again be accepting guests. By mid-June, another 13 properties in Australia will be open. Many of our staff in Clark have returned to work and our corporate teams from the Gold Coast will progressively head back to the office next month.

We will continue to monitor the latest health and safety advice from regional, national and international health bodies and we will act accordingly. Our teams have been working hard to enhance our hygiene and cleanliness procedures as we prepare to return to work and re-open our resorts.

This week, our U.S. teams re-opened more than 20 Club Wyndham and WorldMark by Wyndham resorts with a limited occupancy. As we get ready to open our own, I encourage you to take a few moments to watch an update from our President and CEO Michael Brown.

To access additional regional resources, please visit the Asia Pacific page within Connections.

Thank you for your patience and flexibility through this challenging period. I am excited to welcome back our owners and members to resorts this week, and I look forward to continuing the process to resume operations.

Take care,
Barry